

COMEDY: I Miss Communism, Royal Exchange, until Sunday - Magazine - Entertainment - Stockport Express

You are here: Home | Entertainment | Magazine | COMEDY: I Miss Communism, Royal Exchange, until Sunday

Magazine

 Print Article |  Share this article |  Submit Comments

advertisement

COMEDY: I Miss Communism, Royal Exchange, until Sunday

12/10/2007

AN UNUSUAL comedy show at The Studio at Manchester's Royal Exchange Theatre this week promises a glimpse into a very different culture.

Ines Wurth plays 15 separate characters in her one-woman show I Miss Communism, which charts her life story from Communist Croatia to Capitalist California in a touching, personal journey which is both funny and intense.

Ines introduces her life growing up under a Communist regime, developing into the story of three women of different generations and different countries who have each lived through wars and concentration camps.

The actress and writer now lives and works in Los Angeles, but only started her acting career in London when she left Croatia as a teenager.

She was a member of the Compass Theatre in London and her theatre credits there included A Doll's House and The Cherry Orchard.

Runs until Sunday. Telephone the box office on 0161 833 9833.

 Print Article |  Share this article |  Submit Comments

Search

GO

© M.E.N media 2007